

Greetings!

My name is Andrew Adorno, and I am a Registered Dietitian/Nutritionist in the New Orleans area. I am excited to be this year's President of the New Orleans Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics (NOAND)! This is our organization's first year as NOAND instead of the New Orleans Dietetic Association (NODA) to mirror our national organization - the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics.

I work at Tulane Medical Center covering the SICU, Neuro ICU, MICU, CCU, and Neonatal ICU + I am a Certified Nutrition Support Clinician (CNSC). My interests include tube feedings, TPN, electrolyte management, and working with other disciplines in the hospital. I am also interested in sports nutrition, conducting research, mindful eating, physical activity, and vegetarian diets.

We will be having an active year with plenty of CEU + networking opportunities with both virtual and in-person options. We will have both monthly membership meetings + monthly journal clubs. Our CEU opportunities will have a wide range of topics including clinical nutrition, community nutrition, wellness, counseling, sports nutrition, school foodservice, diversity, and more!

Check out our members only area! We have forums where members can connect with each other to post resources + job opportunities in the area and access our dietitian directory. We will also be having 3 scholarship opportunities for members: a general award, a student award, and a diversity award to reimburse for school expenses, advanced practice certifications, membership dues, conference registrations, etc.

Please do not hesitate to reach out to me via email at eatrightneworleans@gmail.com about speaking opportunities, sponsoring a meeting, job searches, student/dietetic intern inquiries, community events, job postings for your company, or anything else!

Looking forward to a great year, and I am honored to be this year's president!
